Wednesday, February 3. 1714.

From the Amsterdam Gazette.

Paris, January 18.

TH E Prelates commissioned by the King's Letter, to deliberate on the Pope's Bull condemning many Propositions taken out of Father Quesnel's Explanatory Notes on his Version of the New Testament, having often met, and being to assemble again the 22d Instant, 'tis said a Protest was given in the 15th, against receiving the said Bull, The Preamble and Conclusion of which Protest runs thus. "The Cardinal, Archbishops and Bishops whose Names are underwritten, declare to the Cardinals, Archbishops and Bishops, who are to assemble next Monday, to deliberate about accepting the Constitution (or Bull) of our Holy Father Pope Clement XI, dated the 8th of September last, that they are sensibly concerned that they cannot assist in their Debates. They find themselves in this sad Necessity, because the Acts of the Proceedings which have been already communicated to them, do not appear to them sufficient for preserving the Truth, the Peace of the Church, and the State-Maxims of the Kingdom, &c. They Protest, in Conclusion, that they will re-unite with the rest with Joy, when ever proper Means shall be proposed for giving Peace to the Church, without violating the Truth committed to their keeping. At Paris the 12th of January 1714. This was signed by the Cardinal de Noailles Archbishop of Paris, the Archbishop of Tours, the Bishops of Laon, Chalons sur Marne, Verdun, Auxerre, Boulogne, and Bayonne.

Paris, Jan. 22. The Prelates were assembled again on Friday and Saturday last. The Cardinal de Rohan was the only one who spoke, and 'tis said he will employ the Sessions of this Day in making an End of his Report of the Resolution, which he has taken in Consult with others, to accept the Bull. To Morrow, the Votes will be collected of every Bishop of the Assembly. 'Tis thought the Cardinal de Noailles, with the seven Bishops who have united in Opinion with him, will then signify their Dissent, and so retire. We hear the King is very much surprized to hear of the Opposition made by the last mentioned Bishops, and that he has said he had been positively assured that the Bull would pass unanimously in the Assembly of the Clergy. 'Tis also said, that M. de Bethune Bishop of Verdun, and others, have talked on this Subject with Father Tellier the King's Confessor in very free Terms.

Paris, Jan. 26. On Tuesday the 22d Instant, the Prelates were re-assembled; and the Cardinal de Rohan finished his Report, importing, that his Opinion was, that for shewing the Pope the Respect due to him, and for satisfying the King, who earnestly desires to see an End of this Affair, the Pope's Bull should be received absolutely and simply: That at the same time, for preventing the ill Use which might be made of the Condemnation of so many Propositions, a Letter should be written to the Pope, to acquaint him in what Sense his Bull was accepted: That a like Letter should also be written to all the Bishops of the Kingdom, and that a Plan of a Pastoral Letter should be drawn up, for causing the Bull to be received in the same Manner in all the Dioceses. The next Day the Bishops who had joyned with the Cardinal de Noailles, urged, that since 'twas allowed that the Bull ought not to be received without Explications, it was proper to agree upon those Explications before they received the Bull. That what they owed to their Dignity and to Truth required this of them; and that consequently they could not consent to an absolute and simple Accep-tation. 'Tis said the Pope's Nuncio is much disturbed at this Opposition of those Bishops, pretending that the Bull ought to be received absolutely without Explication; that it does not belong to the Bishops to explain it; that the Pope alone can know what he has thought fit to condemn; that they ought to submit, waiting till he explain himself if he think fit; and that the Cardinal de Noailles would not take it well, if any of his Suffragans should take upon them to explain his Ordinances. 'Tis believed this Affair, far from being finished, will produce greater Broils than ever in the Kingdom.

Paris, Jan. 29. There has not been any Assembly of the Bishops since the 23d, when the Affair of the Bull was decided in a Manner that makes the Publick murmur, being informed that 40 Prelates have pronounced their Suffrage in less than half an Hour, upon 101 Propositions of Doctrine, Morality, and Discipline, of the greatest Importance to the Christian Religion, and thereby decided more Matter than the Council of Trent did in 20 Years.

Paris, Feb. 2. Our Bishops assembled Yesterday, and had two Sessions which lasted very long. A Pastoral Instruction was read, which had been resolved on by the Majority who have accepted the Bull; a Letter for the Pope, and a Letter for the Bishops of the Kingdom, were read likewise. Which done, the Cardinal de Noailles made an Eloquent Speech of about a Quarter of an Hour in Length, wherein he represented in Substance:

That having examined the Bull with great Care, he had found therein several Articles liable to great Difficulties; that the Matter they contain has alarmed all People in an extraordinary Manner; that his Religion, his Honour, his Conscience, and his Respect for the Holy See, not permitting him to consent to the Accepting of the Bull, he had resolved, with divers of the Bishops, whose Zeal is equal to their Learning, to oppose the Reception of a Bull which is contrary to the Doctrine and Liberties of the Church of France; that having for this Purpose united with those Prelates, they had written jointly a Letter to the King, to give him an Account of their Opinion, and to beseech him at the same time to permit them to retire from the Assembly; that his Majesty having not thought it proper, and having commanded them to continue to sit in the Assembly, they had obeyed: But that to Day the Matter of the Bull being proposed to their Deliberation, he declared, as well for himself as for the Lords the Bishops with him, that they adhered to the Resolution they had taken not to give their Suffrage; and that for preserving all the Rules of Decency and Respect, they had that very Day addressed a Letter to the King signed by them, which was already gone for Versailles, and that they had another ready for the Pope, in which they represented with great Submission to his Holyness, the Motives of their Conduct, intreating him to explain to him the important Difficulties arising from his Bull; and that this was all he had to represent to them.

The other Bishops appeared much surprized with this Declaration. But they proceeded in collecting the Suffrages; and the Secretary of the Assembly taking a List of the Names, called every Prelate in his Rank. Forty Bishops voted for accepting the Bull, and approved the Instruction: But each of the Dissenting Bishops, as he was called upon, only said, My Lord Cardinal has Spoken for me. So the Assembly broke up.
